thinking in terms of the social. Our programme is based on new ways of relating to ideas of nature and gender and all of their entanglements, as well as to the many political and aesthetic concerns that shape not only the artistic practices of the future but our future social spaces. At the Institute, we also organize a range of events, including the Art Talks and the semiannual Master Symposia series, which are open to all art students in Switzerland and abroad as well as to the general public. Our podcast series, meanwhile, which narrates our research and ways of expanding and conversing with our community, is widely available online. Finally, special projects and art exhibitions are regularly presented in our exhibition space on campus, der TANK
