International Management

Steering Business Into the Future

As a manager, your responsibility is to navigate a dynamic business environment, leading your organisation's efforts to explore new markets and optimise internal processes effectively.

Business All-Rounders in High Demand

Your degree will unlock a wealth of opportunities, positioning you for roles such as project manager, consultant, or even senior management. You will be highly sought after by a diverse range of employers, including small and medium-sized enterprises, start-ups, multinational corporations, and non-governmental or non-profit organisations. Your career prospects will span a variety of sectors, from manufacturing to services.

Developing Analytical and Decision-Making Skills

Our team of highly qualified lecturers will provide you with the essential tools to identify and evaluate opportunities and risks in various business and management contexts. You will be equipped to harness the growing interdependence of businesses, markets, and people across borders and industries, enabling you to make informed and impactful decisions.

Building High-Performing Teams

Your studies at FHNW will prepare you to collaborate effectively, motivate colleagues, and lead teams with confidence. You will gain the expertise needed to bring innovative ideas to realisation and drive positive changes within your organisation.

Studying in English

International Management is taught entirely in English, the global language of business. This ensures that all communication, from lectures and assignments to administrative matters, is aligned with the demands of an international career.

Gaining International and Cross-Cultural Experience

To complete 24 ECTS of international experience, you can study abroad at one of over 200 partner universities, pursue a double degree, join an International Student Project, learn a foreign language, attend international business modules, or participate in summer/winter schools. These activities build intercultural skills and a global mindset, essential for diverse professional environments.

Career Prospects

Your degree will equip you with the knowledge and skills needed to build a successful career and understand how organisations achieve and sustain competitiveness in today's dynamic international landscape. You will gain expertise in management theories and techniques essential for leading companies and teams in multicultural business environments.

The programme's strong practical focus – through project work, business simulations, and case studies – will enhance your ability to understand and adapt business and management concepts to diverse local and international contexts. Furthermore, you will develop vital intercultural and interpersonal communication skills, empowering you to navigate diversity effectively and thrive in global business settings.

Assessment Stage

In the assessment stage, you gain the foundation of your management education while discovering your strengths.

Main Programme with Personalised Study Profile

Alongside compulsory modules, you can choose from a wide range of business and context studies electives. In your final year, you will have the opportunity to specialise in an area aligning your studies with your strengths and interests.

This specialisation deepens your knowledge and tailors your studies to your career goals. Practical projects and the bachelor's thesis will link theory to real-world applications.

Flexible Study Options

You can choose to study full-time (three years), part-time (four years), or through the part-time flex model, which combines the best of traditional teaching and learning methods with online and self-study sessions. If studying part-time, you may earn up to 18 ECTS through relevant work experience. You can switch anytime between full-time, part-time and part-time flex tracks.
