

Admission Procedure Master of Arts in Musical Performance: Producing/Performance Jazz, focus on performance

Guideline for the admission procedure

The admission procedure of the Hochschule für Musik/FHNW for the Master of Arts in Musical Performance, Producing/Performance Jazz with focus on Performance takes place in several phases.

Please note: You choose one main subject (focus subject) and one complementary subject (combination subject). If you choose main subject (focus subject) Performance, you choose between Composition and Production as your complementary subject. Please state your main (focus) and complementary subject clearly in your motivation letter when applying and upload the requested materials for both the main and complementary subject before February 15, 2023.

In exceptional cases, you may be allowed to study two complementary subjects, both Composition and Production, if your main subject (focus subject) is Performance. A separate admission exam will be necessary if you want to audition for a second complementary subject. This additional audition will take place after the second round of the regular admission procedure, upon request. No material needs to be submitted for a possible additional exam at the time of applying.

Video dossier

An audiovisual (image/sound) recording must be submitted. At least three pieces of the candidate's current musical work are presented with an ensemble and/or as a soloist. We are interested in getting to know the applicant's artistic identity, which can be rendered through musical interaction and expression as well as through personal compositions and arrangements by the candidate. The selection of the recorded music should document both the interpretative and improvisational skills and the applicant's familiarity and affinity with jazz and/or with jazz related musical genres.

Please note:

- All tracks should be unedited full takes
- We recommend using a stereo microphone and placing it properly. If no stereo microphone is available, the microphone of a camera, computer or smartphone can also be used.
- The video should be filmed in a static perspective, hands and face should be visible.
- Public recordings may be submitted, provided that they meet the above criteria and have not been edited.
- The recordings should be recent, in no case older than one year.
- The individual pieces can be recorded separately.

Letter of motivation

Please document your previous general and musical education in the letter of motivation. In addition, your motivation for and expectations of this Master degree study program should be outlined.

Master Project Plan

During this master's program, students develop their individual artistic profile. In doing so, they commit to exploring and researching topics connected to their artistic development and documenting this process. Students look to contextualize their own work with the work of others and will share the artistic outcome. At the end of their studies, they will present the results of this exploration in a master thesis, documenting the artistic process and research. They will also publicly present their master project in a concert/presentation.

The Master Project Plan needs to be submitted with the application. In it, the candidate outlines her/his artistic interests and sketches a personal approach to artistic development and artistic research. During the course of study, research questions and the methodological approach can and may evolve.

When sketching the areas of your interest in the master project plan, please include aspects of professional development as well, outlining your plans to integrate your work in the professional field.

The following items should be addressed in the Master Project Plan:

- Musical/artistic interests and questions
- Contextualization of your own artistic work with that of other musicians and artists
- Aims and implementation of your master studies
- Plans for professional integration during and after studies

Pre-selection

Based on the submitted dossier (video recordings, letter of motivation, Master Project Plan), a committee decides on the admission to the second round that constitutes of a live audition. Candidates who are admitted to the second round will be notified about the date of the live audition.

Audition

-Ensemble and/or solo performance (duration: 20 minutes)

The performance can be designed freely. In addition to an individual artistic profile, skills in improvisation are considered important. The repertoire may consist of jazz standards as well as original compositions and/or arrangements. The repertoire may include pieces previously submitted for the first round.

In the performance, a connection to the artistic interest outlined in the Master Project Plan should be apparent. Please also prepare a repertoire list to be submitted to the committee.

Ensemble performances can be completed with the candidate's own rhythm section (which is always the case for online auditions) or with a rhythm section organized by the school. If playing with a rhythm section (piano, bass, drums) organized by the school, the repertoire must be selected in such a way that it can be accompanied based on the charts (sheet music) provided by the candidate without prior rehearsal.

-Complementary subject:

At the request of the committee, audition (for complementary subject Composition: two to three pieces are to be prepared) or presentation (for complementary subject Production: short presentation/audition of one to two personal productions).

- Master Project Plan: Hearing/Q&A with the committee (duration: 10 minutes)

Following the audition, the Master Project Plan will be discussed. The candidate briefly presents the intended study plans and aims, and the committee then asks questions.

Choice of audition mode

At the Jazz Institute of the HSM/FHNW we offer the option to attend the second round (audition) in presence (on site) or online (live online audition). Both options will be assessed with equal attention. You must choose the mode of the audition (second round) already when submitting your application. Without expressing the wish to do the second round online, you will participate in a live (in presence) audition. Of course, local applicable COVID measures and regulations will apply at all times.

Requirements for the online audition (if chosen at the time of application)

- The online audition has to be performed with an ensemble (at least a duo).
- It is necessary to ensure the best possible conditions for a good transmission quality of the stream. We use the platform ZOOM. We recommend registering in advance on <http://zoom.us> to familiarize yourself with the platform.
- We recommend the use of an external microphone and, if necessary, an audio interface. For the online admission procedure, we will send a zoom link by e-mail in advance.
